The Red Lion, during more prosperous times

This will be the last newsletter before the Annual Flower and Vegetable Show! Further details can be found inside this newsletter.

We would like to involve the younger members of our community more, so will be showcasing a piece of art (or similar) in each edition.

First up is Matilda Pridgeon, aged 9, who has created this beautiful deer using pastels, pencils and chalk.

If your child would like to contribute to future editions, please email withernvillagehall@gmail.com

Science at home

Making roots

This time of year is perfect for getting out in the garden and starting to grow!
Carrot (best if it still has some leaves on the carrot)

Cocktail sticks, Glass of water

Method

1. Fill a glass half full with water
2. Carefully cut the bottom off the carrot
3. Stick four cocktail sticks around the top
4. Balance the sticks on the top of the glass, so the carrot hangs in the middle
5. Observe what happens over the next few days

The science!

The carrot in the water should sprout extra white thready roots to help it soak up the water. Afterwards, you could plant your carrot in water to see if it keeps growing.
